PROFILE John Pascarella III is an expert in teacher education reform, racial equity, and digital media literacy. His leadership, teaching, and service to the profession encompasses digitally literate, critically reflective, and antiracist practices that have strategically advanced programs, partnerships, policies, structures, and the professional learning of K12 educators, counselors, and leaders. In this capacity, he has influenced state policymakers, university leaders, deans, program directors, superintendents and K12 district leaders to enact reforms that have improved the preparation of pre-service teachers, the professional learning by teachers and principals, access to information technology services and equipment, and the advancement of racial equity in schools serving historically marginalized students.

POSITIONS CHIEF ACADEMIC OFFICER 2020-Present
of K-12 RACIAL EQUITY LEADERSHIP ACADEMIES
 USC Race and Equity Center
 University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA

John leads the academic development of professional learning and organizational change equity leadership academies for K-12 Leaders that focus on combatting institutional, structural, systemic, cultural, and individual racism in K-12 schools. Through these leadership academies, principals, instructional leaders, and other school staff work to cultivate their critical awareness of practices, social norms, policies, and discourses that perpetuate racism within their schools by engaging in race-forward learning modules. These challenging academies lay the foundations for racial literacy, fluency, problem solving, and adaptable approaches within a larger transformative racial equity project that set goals specific to their school needs. Since joining the Center, John and Executive Director/Provost Professor Shaun Harper have secured $695K in funding to provide racial equity academies and campus climate studies. More recently, Harper and Pascarella received $250,000 from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation to strengthen racial literacy of teacher preparation program faculty and improve the skillfulness with which they engage teacher candidates in deep learning experiences about race by delivering a rigorous, high-quality professional learning series for faculty members in 10 university-based teacher preparation programs (TPPs) across the state of California.

CHAIR of the MASTER of ARTS in TEACHING PROGRAM 2015-2019

Barbara J. and Roger W. Rossier School of Education
University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA

John led the Master of Arts in Teaching program from 2015-19. He was responsible for a $2mil+ annual operating budget, led faculty in academic, intellectual and governance issues, acts as primary spokesperson for teacher education programs, represents the programs in school-wide planning and operational meetings, and maintained active relationships with students, alumni and placement partners. John supervised multiple administrative and advising staff that manage all class scheduling, room assignments, and program offering details. John led quality improvement by evaluating program performance, collaborating with faculty to develop and meet challenging quality goals, and managing program and curricular improvement efforts. John also coordinates online operations with an additional 25-30 staff supporting recruitment, advising, fieldwork, and online course production. John represented USC teacher education programs at conferences and national teacher education reform meetings regionally and nationally. The newly designed MAT Program under John's leadership included the development of common program and formative assessments, cross-course integration and alignment of competencies and resources, systematic integration of instructional technology, and core program frameworks such as the MAT Reflective Teaching Cycle and Equity Portfolio frameworks, that in turn produced higher learning outcomes and better prepared graduates.

Strategic Partnerships formed while Chair:

Google for Education: Partnered and contracted GFE to facilitate Google Certified Educator professional development of program faculty. Integrate GCE certification into Blended Learning course for MAT Teacher Candidates (EDUC 679) so all MAT graduates are GCE certified.

Edthena: Partnered and contracted Edthena to provide teacher video collaboration software for MAT Teacher Candidates to analyze, evaluate, and develop goals pertaining to lesson videos improve teaching over time.

Deans for Impact: Partnered/member of nonprofit reform organization "committed to transforming educator preparation and elevating the teaching profession." Implemented program evaluation and peer review using a Common Indicator System.

DIRECTOR of FIELDWORK for ACADEMIC PROGRAMS 2011-2015

Barbara J. and Roger W. Rossier School of Education
University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA

John led clinical fieldwork services for Rossier School of Education, including the MA in Teaching and MA in Teaching TESOL, ME in Educational Counseling, the Masters of Marriage and Family Therapy, the EdD in Educational Leadership, as well as the Professional Development, Certificate, and Non-Degree Programs. Provided leadership in evaluating, retooling, creating, and implementing a clinical practicum that offered MAT teacher candidates essential learning experiences that prepare graduates according to program goals as well as state (CCTC) and national (NCATE, AACTE, and AERA) standards. Awarded and coordinated $110K grant to study the use of video-based teacher performance assessments. Designed, implemented and evaluated a mentor teacher evaluation system. Conducted regional school site visits to K-12 unit partners in New York, New Jersey, Washington DC, Maryland, Virginia, Georgia, Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco, San Diego, and Las Vegas. Managed annual programming budget of $40K.
